Meeting at TJC West

January 28, 2012

The Editor Says:

Hello ET Turners,

Our new President, Wayne Smith, has recently undergone some serious surgery. Though Wayne is doing well with his recovery, he is taking a small break from his presidential duties until the doctor feels the world is once again ready for him. This month Paul Coppinger will fill in for Wayne, both in words and in presence at the January 28th meeting. – Editor

Let's try this again....

Hello ET Turners,

Finishing Resin - The difference between a good turning and a great turning can be the finish. And a good finish requires good surface preparation. And finally, a good shiny finish with depth requires a super flat, smooth surface to prevent reflective light scattering. Many woods such as ash or walnut have open pores that prevent the surface from being perfectly smooth. These imperfections in the surface must be filled to produce a good shiny finish. Many types of fillers are available including oil based, sanding sealer with cellulose, sawdust with super glue, etc.

Stephan Hatcher, famous for his mineral inlay turnings, recommended a product called Z-Poxy, PT-40. This is a thin 2-part epoxy used by luthiers to obtain the extremely shiny finishes on acoustic guitars. Z-Poxy is available for under $16 online or from many model airplane stores (not hobby stores), such as Wings and Wheels in Tyler off Broadway.

Besides the finishing resin, get a squeegee such as a flexible plastic card like a credit card or name tag and a scrap piece of wood. After the surface of the turning is sanded until all scratches are removed (400-600 grit) and applying any coloring dyes, mix a small quantity of the epoxy on the scrap wood. (A little bit of the resin goes a long way so start with just a drop of each part, more can be mixed as needed.) Use the squeegee to apply the mixture across the surface of the turning such that the filler is forced into the open pores, cracks, etc. Z-Poxy has a 2 hour set time and requires overnight to completely harden. Using 240 grit wet/dry sandpaper, with water or mineral spirits as a lubricant, sand away any ridges left by the application to level the surface of the resin or sand completely back to the wood to leave finishing resin only in the pores and cracks. Now apply the finish of choice and buff to finish the finish. You will be impressed with the shiny, deep finish obtained. – PAC

One last thing from the Editor....

Tom Crosby asked me to provide a little advance info on his January 28th demo titled "Using A Boring Bar"....

The Boring Bar demo will include a easily made system for use with a Mini-Lathe. This system requires only a hacksaw, drill, and 1/4" tap and a woodworking saw. Materials: 3/4" cold roll bar x 36"L, 1" or 1-1/4" angle iron x 48"L, 1" x 1/8" x 18"L flat bar, 3" x 1-1/8" or 1-1/4" bar and some wood.

A Message From An Old Friend

The wood scrounger has relocated to Fredericksburg (Fbg), TX and joined the Hill Country Turners. My wood collecting here has started after having a 12" Live Oak removed to build a workshop (slab poured 1-11-12) which hopefully will be operational by middle of February, and there were 3 pickup loads of wood/projects brought from Tyler in addition to a POD full of tools and more. I already miss ETW and the great group there, but am finding Fbg to be an easy going place full of friendly people also. Give me a call if you get over this direction. I still have my old cell number 903-521-4526.

We've Lost Another Good Friend

Casey J. Weldon Jr. passed away on January 1, 2012. Casey was an active member of ETW and a regular attendee of the MOST Day get togethers. His good nature and seemingly permanent smile will be miss by all.

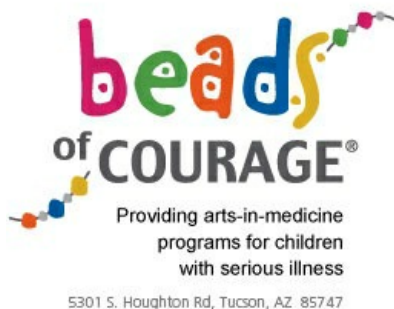

REST IN PEACE DEAR FRIEND.

Members Tip

From a woodworker (also a pen turner) who got tired of getting CA glue on his fingers:

CA glue will not stick to polyethylene. Don't believe it? Put a drop on a poly bag of some kind and check it out.

So, if you had a poly glove, then you can avoid getting CA glue on your fingers. www.caglu.com sells such ($3.95/100 disposable gloves). I don't know if there is a local source for poly gloves or not. – Dennis Lorenz

The ETW Steering Committee is recommending that members participate in the Beads of Courage program. This program aids children undergoing treatments for cancer. Tom Crosby is the ETW representative for this program. Check with him for more information or go to <http://beadsofcourage.org>.
